INTERBORO'S NEW PLEDGE OF A 5-CENT FARE TO CONEY FORMALLY MADE TO CITY

Officials Knew for Some Time of Company's Willingness to Make Concessions.

KEPT IT FROM PUBLIC.

President Shonts Sheds Additional Light in the Newest Concessions.

The Evening World learned to-day upon the authority of a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that its Transit Committee and the Public Service Commission had already received the proposal of President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to withdraw his original demand that the city make good any deficit arising from that company's operation of the Fourth Avenue subway, Brooklyn with extensions to Coney Island and Port Hamilton. The proposal will be put in formal shape and presented to the full Board of Estimate.

There are several "ifs" between Mr. Shonts' offer of a five-cent fare to Coney Island from Pelham Bay Park. The chief one is the ability of the Interborough to qualify in every other respect as the company to whom the city should give its new subway contract. An independent city-owned subway, such as the Triborough, would also proper operating contract, would also provide a five-cent fare to Coney Island, and there is that hope that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the supporter of the ten-cent fare, may soon see a great light.

SHONTS MAKES NEW STATE-MENT ABOUT FIVE-CENT FARE.

President Shonts made a further statement to-day concerning his company's offer of a five-cent fare to Coney Island, exclusively published in the Evening World yesterday:

"Permit me to call the Evening World's attention to the fact that the extensions to Fort Hamilton and the Interborough are proposed by the Interborough and not by the city of New York. The Fort Hamilton route is as follows:

Beginning at Fourth Avenue and Forty-third street, thence a four track subway under Fourth Avenue to Sixty-seventh street or Bay Ridge Avenue, thence a two track subway under Fourth Avenue to Fort Hamilton.

The Coney Island extension to the Fourth Avenue subway is as follows:

"Beginning at Fourth Avenue and Fortieth street, thence under Fortieth street and New Utrecht Avenue, thence under private property near Eighteenth Avenue, thence under Eighty-sixth street to Twenty-fourth Avenue, all as a three track subway; thence, becoming elevated and continuing as a four track elevated through Eighty-sixth street and Stillwell Avenue to Mermaid Avenue, to Coney Island and terminating in a two track loop between Mermaid and Surf Avenue."

The Coney Island route is a subway until it reaches the marshy ground

DEEP MYSTERY IN SUGAR FRAUDS STILL UNSOLVED

Wise Unable to Tell Why
Millions in Seizures Were Not Held Out On the Trust.

UP TO HIS PREDECESSOR

Sure Havemeyer Could Have Been Convicted, but Others
Only Mannikins.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Henry A. Wise, United States District Attorney of New York, frankly admitted to the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice to-day that he could not say why it was that the Government had been content merely to collect duties in the sugar fraud cases and had not seized and confiscated the millions of dollars' worth of sugar involved in the frauds.

When Mr. Wise specifically was asked why the sugar itself had not been declared forfeited to the Government, he said:

"I am unable to answer that question, because the policy of the Government had been determined before I became District Attorney. I do not want to reflect on any one, but I say that I have exacted a pound of flesh in every instance where I have been concerned."

Secretary of War Stimson was Wise's predecessor in office.

Chairman Beall said he had noticed that women and others who tried to defraud the Government were usually required to forfeit their imports and he considered it a great misfortune that the sugar importers had not been treated likewise.

Mr. Wise in discussing another phase of the sugar prosecutions in New York said that every man "higher up" who could be reached had been proceeded against.

"I think President Havemeyer of the American Sugar Refining Company could have been prosecuted and convicted," said Mr. Wise. He added that Mr. Havemeyer died shortly after the frauds were discovered. Other officers of the sugar corporation in Mr. Havemeyer's day were alluded to by Mr. Wise as "mere mannikins."

Chairman Beall at this point questioned Mr. Wise as to the recent indictment of cotton brokers on charges of attempting to corner the cotton market.

"There was an agreement between cotton buyers and cotton spinners," explained Chairman Beall. "Will you tell us why you indicted the buyers and did not indict the spinners?"

Mr. Wise declined, saying that experience had taught him it was wisest to keep his mouth closed in regard to prosecutions until he appeared in court. He said the illegal agreement did not originate with the spinners, but with the men "who were manipulating the market."

In response to another question, Mr. Wise said the reason that the second indictment against the cotton buyers was withheld from July to December was because one of the men under indictment was out of the country.

He testified that the indicted men were charged with dealing with not more than 1-16 of the entire supply. Mr. Beall wanted to know why so much activity had been manifested against men who had dealt in so small a quantity of a commodity and that no steps had been taken toward legal proceedings against the officials of the Standard Oil, Tobacco or Steel Corporations.

Mr. Wise declared that until the recent decisions of the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases were handed down prosecutors had been unable to determine the exact status of the "holding company" or parent concern in a stock holding combination.

BANKER LATIMER FREED FROM ARREST ON FRAUD CHARGE

No Evidence of Crime in Case of Pittsburg Church Worker, Says Magistrate.

POLICE ABANDON CASE.

$2,000 Check in Alleged Coal
Deal Not Cashed by Three
Who Were Accused.

Thomas M. Latimer, prominent in Pittsburg church and business circles; John Phillips and H. R. De Ridder, the arrest of which trio on the charge of participating in a mining fraud scheme last night created a sensation in Pittsburg, were to-day released from custody by Magistrate Harris in Centre Street Court. Magistrate Harris said he could find no evidence of even an attempt to commit a crime.

Before the New York Magistrate passed on the case the Pittsburg police gave up their prosecution. The men had been arrested at the Waldorf and Buckingham hotels on telegrams from Pittsburg saying they were fugitives from justice. But after the police in Pittsburg talked with District Attorney William A. Blakeley of that city they refused to ask for the extradition of the men on the ground that if an offense had been committed it had been committed in New York.

That was the status when Magistrate Harris started his investigation to-day. A. H. Stolzenbach of Pittsburg, who caused the arrests, was the chief witness. He said that Latimer came to him in Pittsburg, May 29, and said that he knew a man named Phillips in New York who had lots of English money to invest in American securities, preferably in the Pittsburg coal district's offerings.

The witness added that he was told to get hold of 30,000 acres of coal lands for the consideration of Phillips.

Stolzenbach added that he and his partners scraped together a lot of coal properties and came to New York May 31 bringing a draft for $2,000 that Latimer had told him to bring to close the deal. He said Latimer introduced Phillips, who said he had the money for investment and that the only question at stake was whether or not the lands contained the coal. He gave the $2,000 check to the representatives of the investors, he said, and they went to Wheeling, where some of the land was located.

Then an engagement was made for a conference at Pittsburg, June 9. Stolzenbach says that his friends did not keep the engagement. All of which led up to the complaint.

Magistrate Harris said he could find no evidence of crime; that the charge made for handling the matter was reasonable, and that it was strange, that if a fraud was contemplated, the men would still have the check uncashed.

Latimer is a conspicuous figure in the First Christian Church of Pittsburg, one of the fashionable institutions of that city. At the services a week ago Sunday he introduced to his pastor, Phillips and De Ridder.

Latimer has for years been the chairman of the executive committee of the Young Men's Bible Association and is known through Western Pennsylvania as an active worker in that organization. He was a conspicuous figure at the last national convention of the Christian Church.

When arrested here and placed in the Tombs last night, the three men were indignant and telegraphed friends, denouncing the arrest as an outrage.

ACTRESS SMOKES CIGARETTE AS BIG LINER COMES UP

Lillian Roydell Bewilders Passengers on La Savoie by Kaleidoscopic Toilets.

WEARS FOUR A DAY.

She's Planning to Cause Furor on Fifth Avenue With New
"Butterfly Pajamas."

Voyagers from the Continent who got in to-day on La Savoie of the French Line, may be curious to know that the beautiful young lady of mystery who thrilled them with her bewildering and wonderful toilets on the voyage is Miss Lillian Roydell, an American actress who has been delighting London in the role of the Merry Widow.

Miss Roydell, who has big, soulful eyes, the delicate features of a Psyche and lustrous brown hair, wound up the voyage in a Directoire gown and when the ship news reporters boarded the vessel at Quarantine she was leaning over the rail gracefully smoking a cigarette.

Her Directoire gown was of white and black check material, slashed at the bottom to the knees and underlined with fluffy, rustling green silk. Over her lustrous curls she wore a light straw hat of the general conformation of a nightcap and sufficiently unusual looking to cause one curious old gentleman to fall off the hurricane deck.

SHE CHANGED AT LEAST FOUR TIMES A DAY.

This charming young lady got in and out of original frocks at least four times a day, and two voyaging dress-makers who sought to note down all the details of her kaleidoscopic toilets came into port suffering a severe attack of writer's cramp.

There were two young Frenchmen who were even worse off, having worked their cardiac equipment and sprained up a hated rivalry. As Miss Roydell never appeared twice on deck in the same gown, her admirers could hardly believe there was only one of her.

When interviewed in the midst of her cigarette, Miss Roydell said that while she liked to smoke them, she did not approve of them as a steady diet for women.

"Very few women," she said, "can smoke a cigarette gracefully, and there is nothing more unlovely to look upon than a woman bungling a cigarette, chewing the end and swallowing the smoke."

When asked how she managed to smoke so gracefully, she said she smoked herself red in the face. Women generally and American women especially will never learn to smoke cigarettes gracefully. The majority of foreigners don't, though they begin almost in infancy. The minute a woman looks conscious of the fact that she is smoking a cigarette she looks like, well, she looks a wee bit au diable, to put it mildly.

"As for women smoking cigars, they might better adopt pipes. Even a Spanish grandama with a long cheroot between her lips is not a pretty object of attention. I like to smoke cigarettes. I know how and I am absolutely independent."

SHE HAS SOME SURPRISING HAREM SKIRTS.

The beautiful Miss Roydell is American born. Her mother is a New Yorker and her father a German. She has lived much abroad and she achieved her first theatrical success in London.

"Do they wear many harem skirts over here?" she asked after her lecture on cigarettes. She was assured that harem skirts were still scarce enough on our promenades to cause an alarming straining of rubber wherever they appeared.

"Well, you must get used to them," cried the young lady in the nightcap bonnet and Directoire gown. "I have got a trunkful of them and I am going to give them all a tryout in the two weeks I remain here. I have some beauties; two that I call my butterfly pajamas that are really surprisingly graceful. I expect that when I take them down Fifth Avenue some of the fashionable dressmakers will jump through their plate glass windows. But what's the use of living in this harem drum world if you cannot be original?"

The dove of the ship news reporters, who had been chortling through his Van Dyke, "most beautiful woman ever seen," charming, charming; ravishing creature," made a strenuous effort to learn the date of the appearance of the butterfly pajamas, but Miss Roydell cast him down into the doldrums of disappointment by laughing.

"That I couldn't tell, for I really want to spring them as a modest surprise to the modistes."

MARY GARDEN'S SISTER IS SUED FOR A DIVORCE

John D. Lagen Says Wife Has Deserted Him for the Opera Singer.

(Special to the Evening World.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 10.—Proceedings for divorce have been instituted by John D. Lagen, a real estate broker of this city and New York, against his wife, Amy Garden Lagen, sister of Mary Garden, the grand opera singer.

While the main allegation in the libel is desertion, it is understood that the case will develop a number of sensational and that prominent men and women will figure in it.

Mrs. Lagen is well known in Philadelphia, and owing to the fact that she is almost constantly with her sister, is well known in musical circles all over this country and Europe.

According to the husband, she deserted him in September, 1908, and refused to return, much preferring the life she is leading with Mary Garden.

Mrs. Lagen has been in real estate work for a number of years, and for a long time was actively engaged in the building of houses in the suburbs about Philadelphia. He has a brokerage business in this city as well as in New York.

When Mary Garden first came to Philadelphia, she had more or less trouble with women engaged as companions, and at last she suggested that her younger sister join her and remain with her. Mrs. Lagen did so, and the two sisters have been together much of the time since then.

Mrs. Lagen is believed to be abroad at the present time. Miss Garden is West on a concert tour and is expected in New York soon.

Office Safe and Thirty Buildings Are Destroyed.

BURKINS, W. Va., June 10.—Burglars blew open the safe in the French Creek post-office, twenty-two miles from here, early to-day. Fire followed the explosion and some thirty buildings were burned. The robbers escaped in the confusion following the fire.

In the message reports which reached here to-day nothing is said about fatalities or whether there was loss of life or injuries.

Whitney's Horse First.

STOKES NOTES LOCKED IN SAFETY VAULT, GIRL HAS KEY, POLICE FIND

"Shooting Show Girls" Have "Angel"
Who Is Ready With Any Sum for Bond and Defense, Their Lawyer Declares.

$50,000 BAIL TO BE ASKED
FOR 'DANGEROUS WOMEN.'

Millionaire Gave One $200 "Out of Sympathy" After She Threatened
Suicide Before Him.

Counsel for W. E. D. Stokes, when his two young chorus girls assailants of Wednesday night are arraigned in the West Side Court on Monday, will demand, if they are released pending the appearance of Mr. Stokes in court, that they each furnish $25,000 bail.

T. J. McManus, chief of counsel for the wounded millionaire, said he would demand this heavy bail on the ground that the comely twenty-two-year-old Lillian Graham and her nineteen-year-old chum, Ethel Conrad, are both dangerous women, and that the charge of attempted murder should be considered as a most grave crime.

Mr. McManus added that he thought Mr. Stokes would be able to leave the hospital and appear to prosecute "the shooting show girls," as he referred to them. He has not relaxed a iota, said the lawyer, in his determination to prosecute the young women to the full extent of the law.

The threat to demand high bail does not give the Misses Graham and Conrad any deep concern, for they declare $50,000 is a mere grain of dust in the mine possessed by the "angel" who has come to their assistance. They both refuse, however, to reveal the identity of this "angel."

COFFEE IS BURNED IN WAREHOUSE ON LOWER EAST SIDE.

Smoke From Front Street Fire
Alarms District Along the River.

Flames broke through the roof of No. 142 Front street this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and for a time the East River front folk thought they would have a stubborn fire on their hands. The fifth and sixth floors of the building in which the fire was discovered were filled with tea and coffee which made up a part of the stock of John D. Brown, an importer.

Thomas Sealy, an importer of resin and turpentine, has an office on the ground floor but has none of his wares in the place. When the fire was discovered a heavy cloud of smoke swung out on a stiff breeze over the shipping along the river front.

Many folks saw the fire and thought they had work cut out for them. They came hurrying to the vicinity and stood by to take the freighters along the piers out of the way if the fire spread. The fire boat New Yorker came puffing out on a stiff breeze over the shipping along the river front.

But one alarm was sent in for the blaze and the firemen did not find any trouble in holding it down.

Arch Building Victim Sues.
Abraham Walker of No. 252 Stanton street, father of Celia Walker, fourteen years old, one of the injured in the Triangle Street Waist Company's fire on March 25th last, was to-day appointed guardian for her, to bring a suit for damages against Isaac Harris and Max Blum, owners of the company. The appointment was made by Justice Cobble in the Supreme Court. The amount to be sued for is not stated.

Beat Victim Falls in Street.
Julia Lopez, thirty-five years old, of No. 100 Chatham street, was overcome by heat to-day in front of No. 25 Fourth Avenue. After being attended she went home.

Max Schuman, sixty years old, of No. 94 Avenue A, dropped to the street when overcome by the heat at Seventy-sixth street and First Avenue.

RACING INFORMATION CUT OFF AT MONTREAL.
MONTREAL, June 10.—On the final day of the Blue Bonnet Race Track meet to-day the authorities cut off all telegraph facilities between the track and the city, thus preventing the sending out of the racing results.

Under what is known as the Miller law, passed a year ago, the sending of information from a race track is made unlawful. This law was not enforced during the nine days of the meeting which have passed.

BOTH GIRLS.
Mrs. Alice Andrews, the widowed sister of Miss Graham, will arrive here to-morrow from San Francisco, having started to her sister's support as soon as she heard of the young woman's plight. It is believed she bears a message from John Singleton, her brother-in-law, whose guest Miss Graham was at his beautiful home, Singleton Court, just outside of Los Angeles for a number of years before she went to Paris for the first time.
